KRA Annual Community-Wide Garage Sale Friday, August 24th and Saturday, August 25th

The annual KRA garage sale will be held Friday, August 24th and Saturday, August 25th this year. The community-wide garage sale will be advertised in the local newspapers and on the local radio stations so expect a number of shoppers on Tribal Lands during those two days. There is also a large banner that will be hung at the entrance to Tribal Lands announcing the two-day event. The Monday or Tuesday following the garage sale, South Coast Hospice has volunteered to pick up any sellable, clean items for their thrift store that you would like to donate. Please leave donated items at the end of your driveway; PLEASE do not leave junk or anything you do not want picked up in your driveway. The annual KRA garage sale is a great time to get rid of items you no longer need or want and to make a little extra money. If you have any questions, please contact KRA Chair Rocky Doyle at 541-888-4910.

Great Summer Reads for Youth (and Adults) at the Library

Submitted by Chris Tanner, Librarian 541-756-0904, ext. 10218
christanner@coquilletribe.org

The CIT Library recently received an order of books geared toward younger readers. Throughout the summer, some of these materials will be used for the After School Summer program. Of course, these and a whole bunch of other items are always available at the Library!

Buffalo Dreams: A young person's book about a family of a young girl who hears about the birth of a white buffalo calf and decides to travel to see it and deliver gifts.

Yes Day! I'm sure only an innocent youth would ever think that a day when every answer is yes is a good thing. Read this to your children and see what happens!

Sausages: A young couple receives three wishes from a magic elf. One of them feels hungry and accidentally wishes for a whole bunch of the book's title.

Fahrenheit 451: OK, this is a science-fiction classic that may not be the best for younger readers, but a teenager who is into classics might want to give it a try. Written in 1953 by Ray Bradbury, this book is considered a classic novel of censorship and defiance. Bradbury recently passed away at the age of 93.

The BFG: For video game players, this book by Raul Dahl refers to the Big Friendly Giant who is the main character and hero. Dahl is also the author of Charlie and the Chocolate Factory and James and the Giant Peace. Both of these books are also available at the Library.

When is a Planet Not a Planet? The Story of Pluto: So we only have eight planets in our solar system now? This is one of the science books the Library purchased that is aimed at younger readers. This one explains not only Pluto, but also how a planet is defined and a brief history of astronomy.

Neo Leo: Reflecting on Leonardo Da Vinci, the famous painter, writer, engineer, and inventor of Europe's Renaissance, this book is not as much about the individual, but about his innovations and ideas that were used after Da Vinci's death by other inventors to create many things that people still use today; just mundane stuff like contact lenses, parachutes, and single-span bridges. The way the information is presented in this book could easily inspire a young reader to want to learn more.

What Makes the World Go 'Round?: This is one of over 150 questions (and answers) about the natural world that you will find in this book. The questions are all very interesting to any reader. Examples of other questions with relatively simple answers include "Where did people first farm crops?" and "Why is the Earth round?"

Coffee Grounds ... Creative Ways to Reuse and Repurpose

A cup of coffee is a great way to start the day, and instead of throwing the coffee grounds in the trash, perhaps one of the following practical and creative ways to reuse and repurpose the used coffee grounds might interest you. Spent coffee grounds can be used as:

- Plant and Lawn Fertilizer - Coffee grounds are a natural, organic fertilizer containing nitrogen, sulfur, phosphorous, potassium, magnesium, and calcium. Just sprinkle the coffee grounds around the base of plants or directly onto your lawn.

- Pest Control - Ants and other pests will not cross coffee grounds. Place a ring of coffee grounds near entry ways and windows to keep pests out.
- Cat Control - Cats are repelled by the smell of coffee grounds. Lightly sprinkle coffee grounds around the yard and garden to stop cat damage.
- Kitchen Deodorizer - Coffee grounds can be used in place of baking soda. Place a small, open container of wet coffee grounds in the back of the refrigerator or freezer until the grounds are dry.

- Hand Deodorizer - After handling fish or chopping onions or garlic, rub coffee grounds between your hands to remove the strong odor. The grounds will exfoliate your skin while leaving a slight coffee fragrance.
